

Leader A (Ethical): Mahatma Gandhi

The Ethical Decision: The 1930 Salt March (Dandi March) and the implementation of Satyagraha (truth-force). Gandhi led a 240-mile non-violent civil disobedience movement against the British monopoly and taxation on salt, choosing peaceful resistance and personal sacrifice over armed rebellion to fight for a basic necessity that impacted the poorest citizens.

Valid Articles:

1. Source: The Daily Star
 - Title: Lessons from the Troika of Non-Violence: Gandhi, King and Mandela
 - Why it's useful: This article is a fantastic theoretical resource for your paper. It explicitly breaks down the concept of ahimsa (non-violence) and highlights the 1930 Salt March as the first major test of Satyagraha. It explains how Gandhi used discipline and sacrifice to win over opponents rather than using brute force, perfectly illustrating his ethical leadership framework.
 - Link: <https://archive.thedailystar.net/forum/2012/October/lessons.htm>
2. Source: Al Jazeera
 - Title: Gandhi's legacy being 'forgotten' amid rise of far right in India
 - Why it's useful: This article reflects on his legacy of non-violent resistance and "the fight for truth." It provides a great modern connection by detailing how his exact ethical tools—such as the "Jal Satyagraha" (water protests) and long marches—are still being utilized by civil society movements today to fight for indigenous rights and environmental protection. This will be highly useful for the "Reflection & Analysis" section of your paper.
 - Link: <https://www.aljazeera.com/news/2019/10/1/gandhis-legacy-being-forgotten-amid-rise-of-far-right-in-india>

Leader B (Unethical/Questionable): Aung San Suu Kyi

The Questionable Decision: Her choice to travel to the International Court of Justice (ICJ) in 2019 to personally defend the Myanmar military against allegations of the Rohingya genocide.

Alternative Articles:

1. Source: BBC
 - Title: Aung San Suu Kyi: Myanmar 'defending itself' at Hague court
 - Why it's useful: This article breaks down her specific defense at the ICJ, illustrating her controversial stance that the military was simply conducting

"clearance operations," despite overwhelming international evidence of ethnic cleansing.

- Link: <https://www.bbc.com/news/world-asia-50741094>

The Questionable Decision: Her decision to personally travel to the International Court of Justice (ICJ) in 2019 to defend the Myanmar military against allegations of genocide regarding the Rohingya minority.

Articles (from Al Jazeera, an accepted source):

1. Title: Aung San Suu Kyi defends Myanmar against genocide allegations
 - Why it's useful: It covers the exact event where she defended the military against credible findings of genocide, rape, and mass killings, making it a perfect primary source for an ethically objectionable choice.
 - Link:
<https://www.aljazeera.com/news/2019/12/11/aung-san-suu-kyi-defends-myanmar-against-genocide-allegations>
2. Title: At top court, Myanmar urged to 'stop genocide of own people'
 - Why it's useful: This article contextualizes her defense by detailing the horrific allegations presented by The Gambia and highlighting how her actions were viewed as politically motivated complicity rather than ethical leadership.
 - Link:
<https://www.aljazeera.com/news/2019/12/10/at-top-court-myanmar-urged-to-stop-genocide-of-own-people>